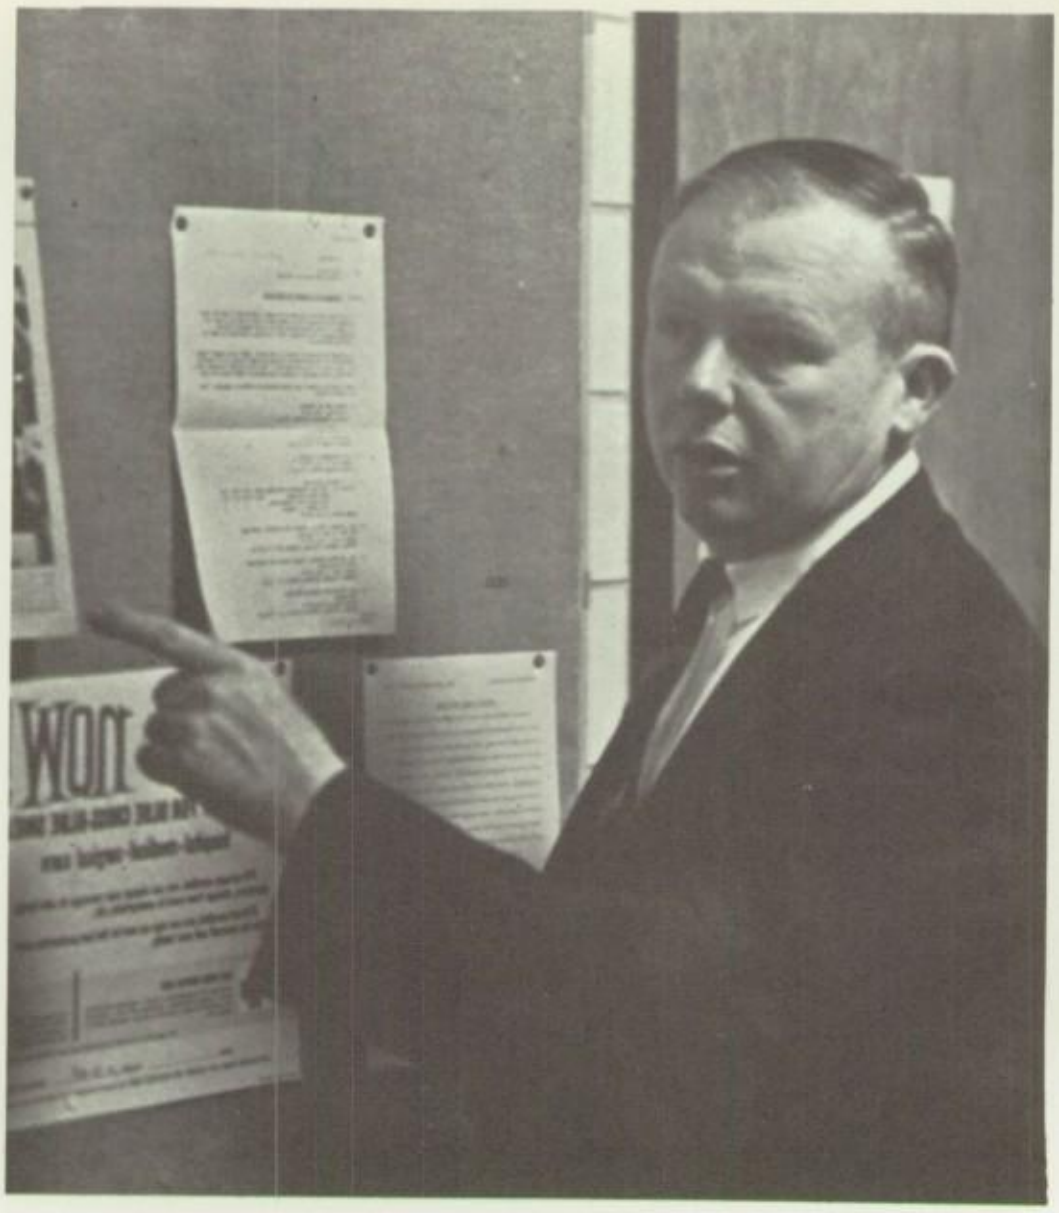
Heading the administration at Southwestern is Mr. Garret Ebmeyer, principal.

New this year to the administrative staff is Mr. Victor Green, who serves as staff specialist.

This office is the scene of a serious discussion between Mr. George Hurley, deputy principal, and Mr. James Whittaker, assistant principal for students.



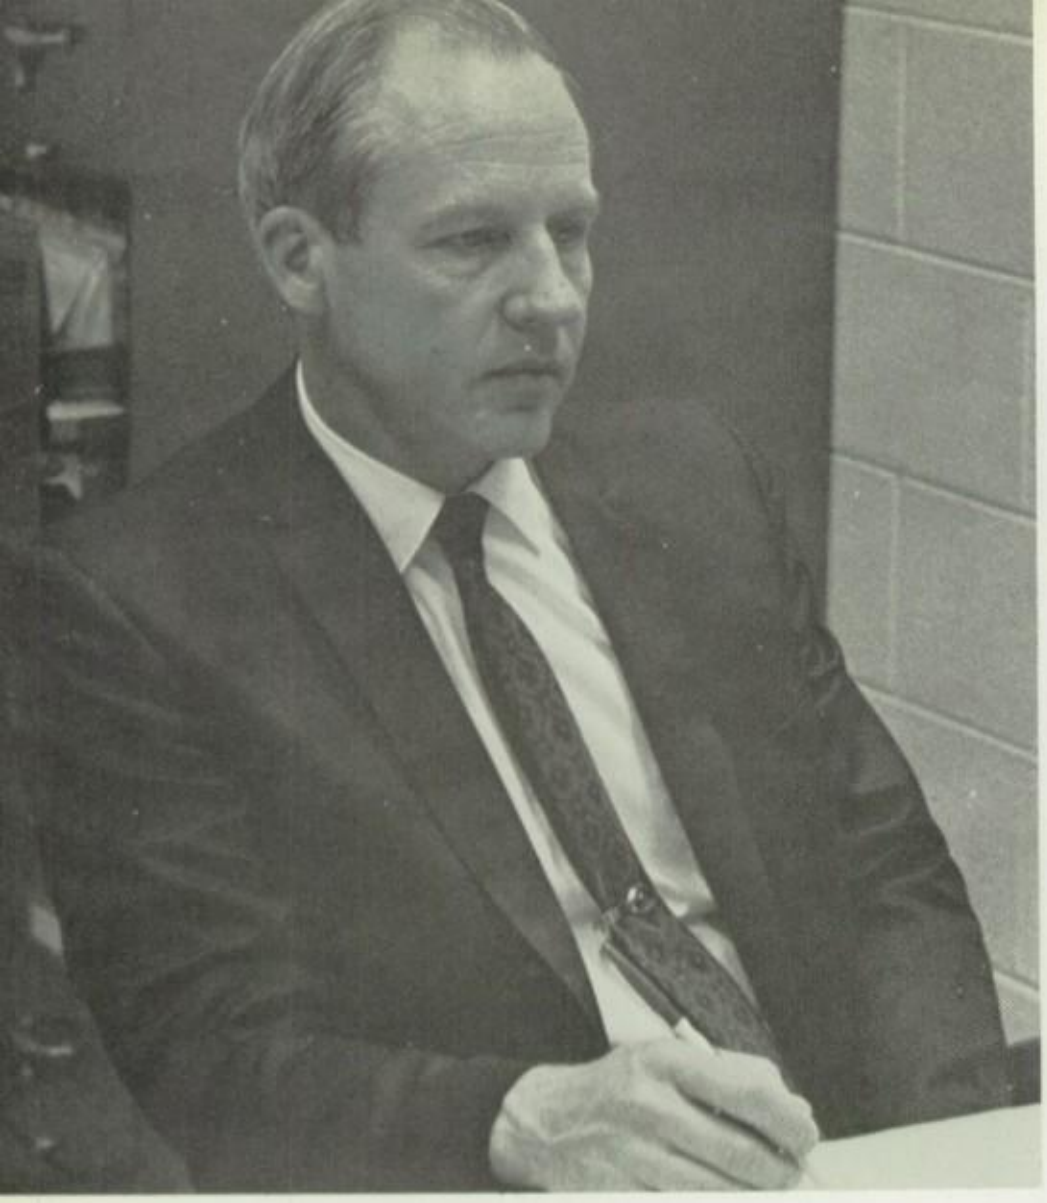
Assistant principal for instruction, Mr. Thomas Herron, is interested in all matters concerning high school youth.

Leaving the school to attend a meeting is Miss Hulda Gibson, assistant principal for counseling.

Staff specialist post now held by Green

Administration staffs of all Flint public high schools were enlarged this year to include a staff specialist. Staff specialists are teachers on special assignment from the personnel office. At Southwestern this post was filled by Mr. Victor Green. His duty was to serve as a liaison between students, faculty, and administration.

Other posts remained unchanged. Southwestern's administrators for 1969 were Mr. Garret Ebmeyer, principal; Mr. George Hurley, deputy principal; Mr. Thomas Herron, assistant principal for instruction; Mr. James Whittaker, assistant principal for students; and Miss Hulda Gibson, assistant principal for counseling.



During the first week of school counselors make many program changes. Mr. Orlo Huttenga takes a rest during the rush.

Leaning over to help a student fill out a form is Mrs. Jean Calef.

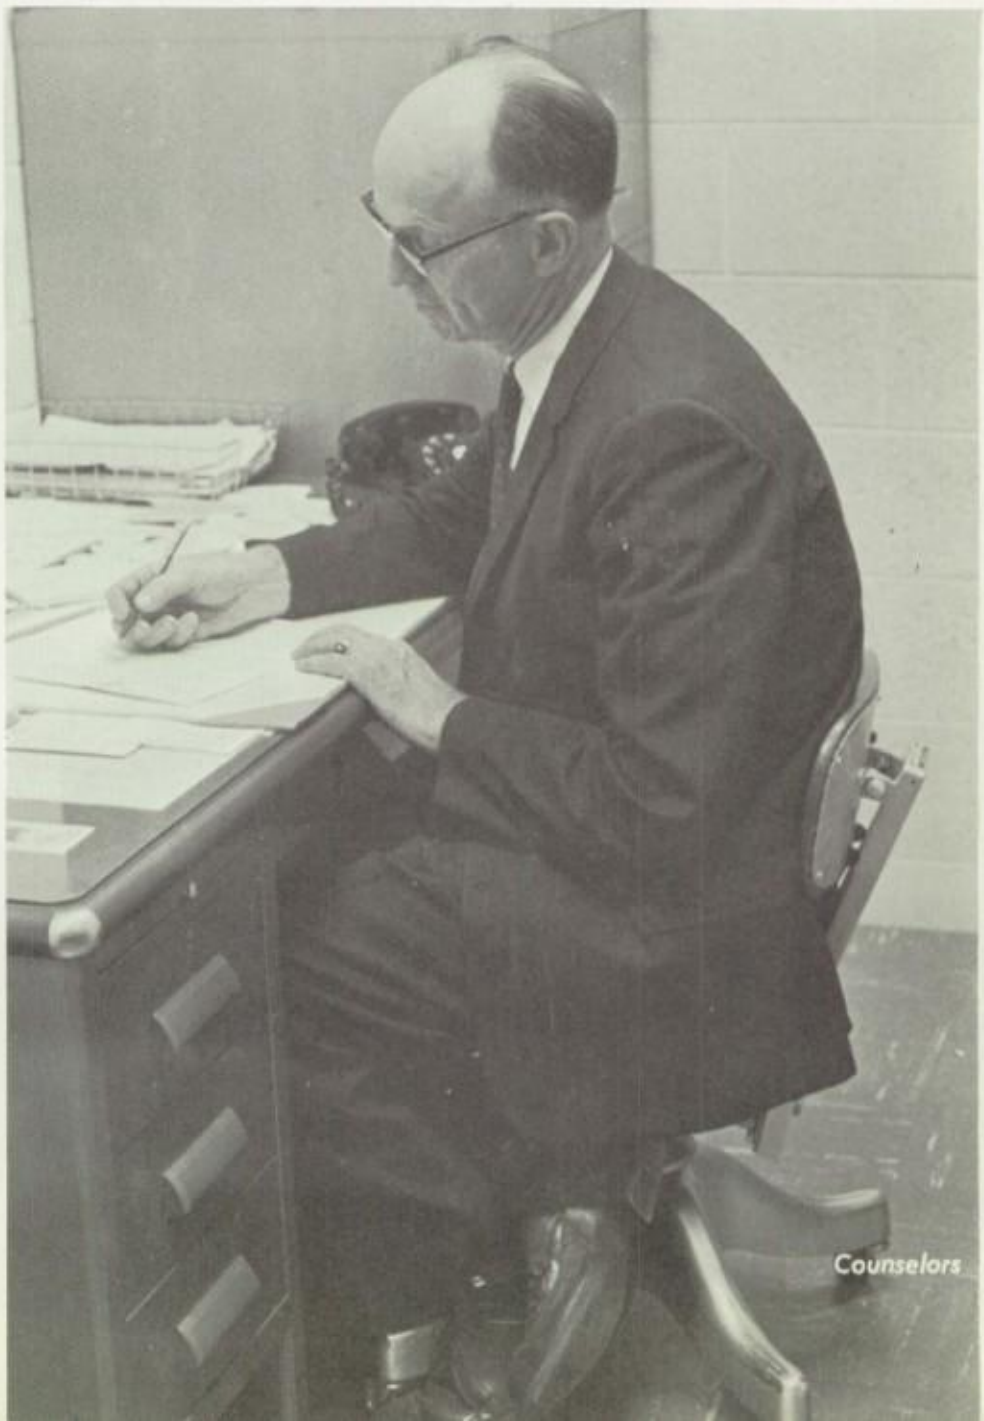
Counselors provide personal assistance

Southwestern's counselors are those staff members who work directly with the student to help him realize his ability and become aware of the opportunities available to him. In addition to assisting him with selecting his classes, the counselor helps him to set goals.

In an effort to give each student the individual attention he requires, Southwestern's counseling department was enlarged by one member as Mrs. Jean Calef joined the staff. Mrs. Calef was formerly a girl's physical education teacher.

Other general guidance counselors were Miss Sarah Andrews, Mrs. Jacquelyn Culnon, Mr. Clare Ecklund, Mr. Paul Johnson, Mr. Jesse Moore and Mr. Levant Wheaton. Special counselors included Mr. Orlo Huttenga, PCP counselor; Mr. Eugene Desautels, special PCP counselor; Mr. Russell Ward, special education counselor; and Mr. Robert Kochaney, vocational counselor.



Working after school hours, Mr. Paul Johnson updates his records.

Inspecting the school laundry room is one of Mr. Warren Lasley's duties as head custodian at Southwestern.

Mrs. Clara Brown, clerk, is in charge of the memo office.

Members of the kitchen staff rinse the celery and carrots which will be included in the day's lunches.

Efficiency objective of SW special staff

At Southwestern a special staff is required to take care of extra activities and services. This staff consists of men and women who have special training in their fields. Together these individuals work to make efficiency a regular part of the school's operation.

Headed by Mrs. Ann Mooney, Southwestern's kitchen staff daily provides for students both hot and cold lunches. Mr. Dan Cady, community school director, schedules outside activities within the building, while Mr. Warren Lasley serves as head custodian. The office clerks, headed by Mrs. Kay Kippe, serve Southwestern by taking care of the vast amount of paperwork involved in running a school of its size.

Two members join SW's English staff

New to the English Department this year were Mr. James Peterson and Miss Esther Langlois. This brought the number of faculty members in the department up to twenty. Mr. Peterson taught two sophomore college-prep classes and Miss Langlois taught a regular class.

Southwestern's English Department offers a wide variety of courses. There are three types of basic English courses—general, regular, and college-prep. In addition classes are offered in speech, drama, creative writing, journalism, and special reading.

Checking files is Mrs. Virginia Sheppard, co-librarian.

Co-librarian, Miss Patricia Brain, stamps books as they come in.

Collection enlarges to above 14,000

As of September, Southwestern's library contained more than 14,000 books. The library also had many records, tapes, filmstrips, pictures, and maps which ware indicated by color coded cards in the card catalog. This year only teachers checked out materials, but students used them in the library at the Listening-Viewing Center.

The co-librarians were Miss Patricia Brain and Mrs. Virginia Sheppard. Library secretary was Mrs. Dorothy Fitzner. Continuing as textbook clerk was Mrs. Wilma Jackson.

Library methods and service classes met every hour this year for the first time. A study program was combined with a work program. Students worked and studied the entire year. In the past they studied first semester and worked the second. The class enrollment was 45.

Placing supplies in bookroom is Mrs. Wilma Jackson, book clerk.

Cadet teachers add interest to program

The Southwestern Cadet Teaching program offers opportunities for students interested in teaching as a career to study the vocation further. Qualifications for acceptance in the program are that one must be an average or above average student with above average personal qualifications and be a senior in school.

Tuesday through Friday the student spends fifth and sixth hours at the area school of his choice. The purpose of this is to observe classes and get a perspective of teaching. Monday's are spent at Southwestern for discussions.

Mrs. Helene Foster, sponsor of the program, scheduled four guest speakers and a trip to the Michigan School for the Deaf to make the course more enriching. Students were expected to keep a log of daily activities while at their schools, along with a file of speakers and articles.

new courses of study evaluated

New texts were used by both German and Spanish I classes this year. They emphasized the trend in teaching modern foreign languages; that of stressing the audio-lingual approach to learning the language. In addition each of the foreign language teachers attended meetings with the staffs of other schools in an attempt to improve both the teaching and learning of foreign languages in Flint. At these meetings new courses of study were drawn up, which the teachers tried and evaluated during the year.

Four teachers taught the seventeen classes of foreign language. Latin, French, German, and Spanish were offered. New to the Language Department staff were Miss Cheryl McLeod, French teacher, and Mr. James Peterson, German teacher. Other teachers were Mrs. Susan Meissner, and Mrs. Helene Foster, department chairman.

"Negroes in American History and Culture"

American History classes had new textbooks this year. They were the Rise of the American Nation and Eyewitness: The Negro in American History. In correlation, history students had an opportunity to hear General Mark Clark, who spoke at the Whiting Auditorium on communism in the United States and on the 1968 elections. Many also heard Mr. Lewis Lomax, author of The Negro Revolt, and The Reluctant African, speak in Southwestern's auditorium. Each lecture was devoted to particular periods in American History and how events led to the country's present dilemmas.

New courses of study were written for classes of civics, psychology, and U.S. History for the 1968-69 school year. Mr. William Fischer, American History teacher, attended the national social studies meeting held in Washington, D.C., over Thanksgiving. An addition to the department this year was Mr. Lyle Spaulding, who taught Foreign Relations and U.S. History. There were fifty-five social studies classes. In addition to those previously mentioned were courses in communications, economics, and geography.

Math plays essential role in field of learning

The Michigan Mathematics Prize Competition requires deep concentration.

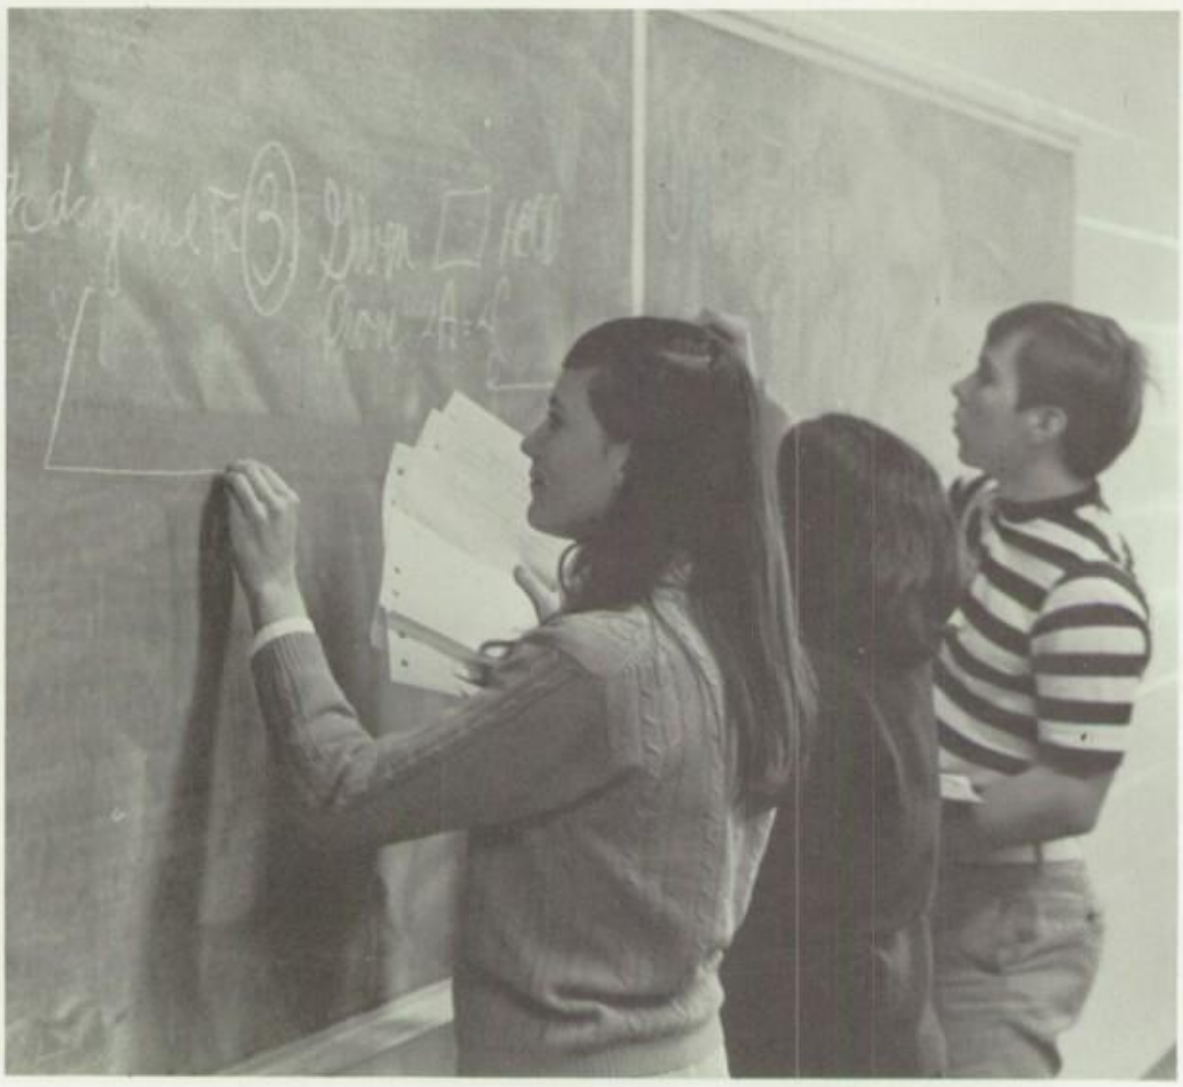
An important part of any student's high school education is math. The various forms of math are used constantly in everyday life, so it is important for each person to have the best possible understanding of mathematical concepts.

A number of math courses were available to students at Southwestern. They included geometry, algebra, trigonometry, advanced functions, analytical geometry and calculus, and probability and statistics, all for college prep students. Students in the general high school program were offered basic math, introduction to high school math, and foundations of math.

This year, as in the past, math students were urged to take part in the Michigan Mathematics Prize Competition. This test provides an opportunity for exceptional math students to earn a scholarship for their ability.

The only addition to the department this year was Mrs. Terry Crooks. She taught Algebra I and II and foundations of math.

Proofs are a favorite pastime of geometry students.



Joanne Lemere and Barry Braver receive assistance in Algebra from Mrs. Terry Crooks.

Many participate in extensive science study

An extensive science program is always offered at Southwestern for those students who seek to gain a better understanding of the world we live in. This year classes were provided for anyone interested in biology, chemistry, physics, electronics, conservation, and physiology. Basic and introductory courses were also offered. Various methods of teaching were employed in order that students might best understand the natural laws of the universe. These methods included laboratory experiments, class discussions, lectures, reading assignments, and miscellaneous projects.

New teachers in the Science Department this year were Mrs. Carol Bohannon in biology and Mr. Thaddeus Lau in chemistry. Mr. Jon Bohannon also taught chemistry and other biology classes were taught by Mr. John Lynch and Mr. Tom Greanya.

Mr. David Hall, department chairman, taught physics and electronics. Other staff members included Mrs. Joanne Lovegrove, who taught physiology, and Mr. Lowell Ricky, who instructed students in conservation.

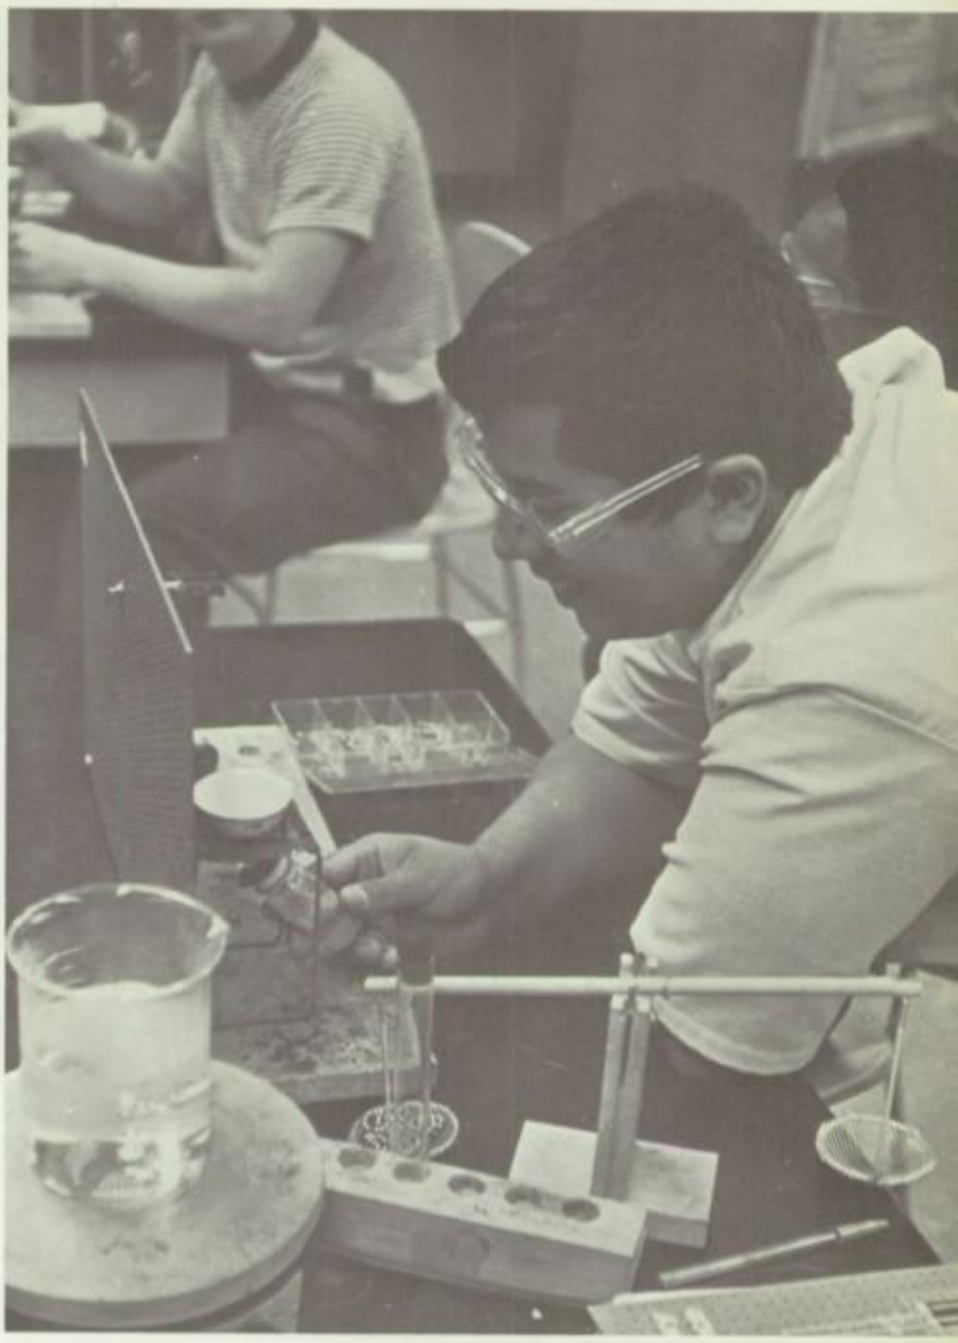
In chemistry, each student takes an active part in experiments.

Biology students lose track of time while performing an experiment.



Awaiting results in his experiment is Daniel Hernandez.

A biology specimen is checked by Bob Notman who will mark it for future reference.

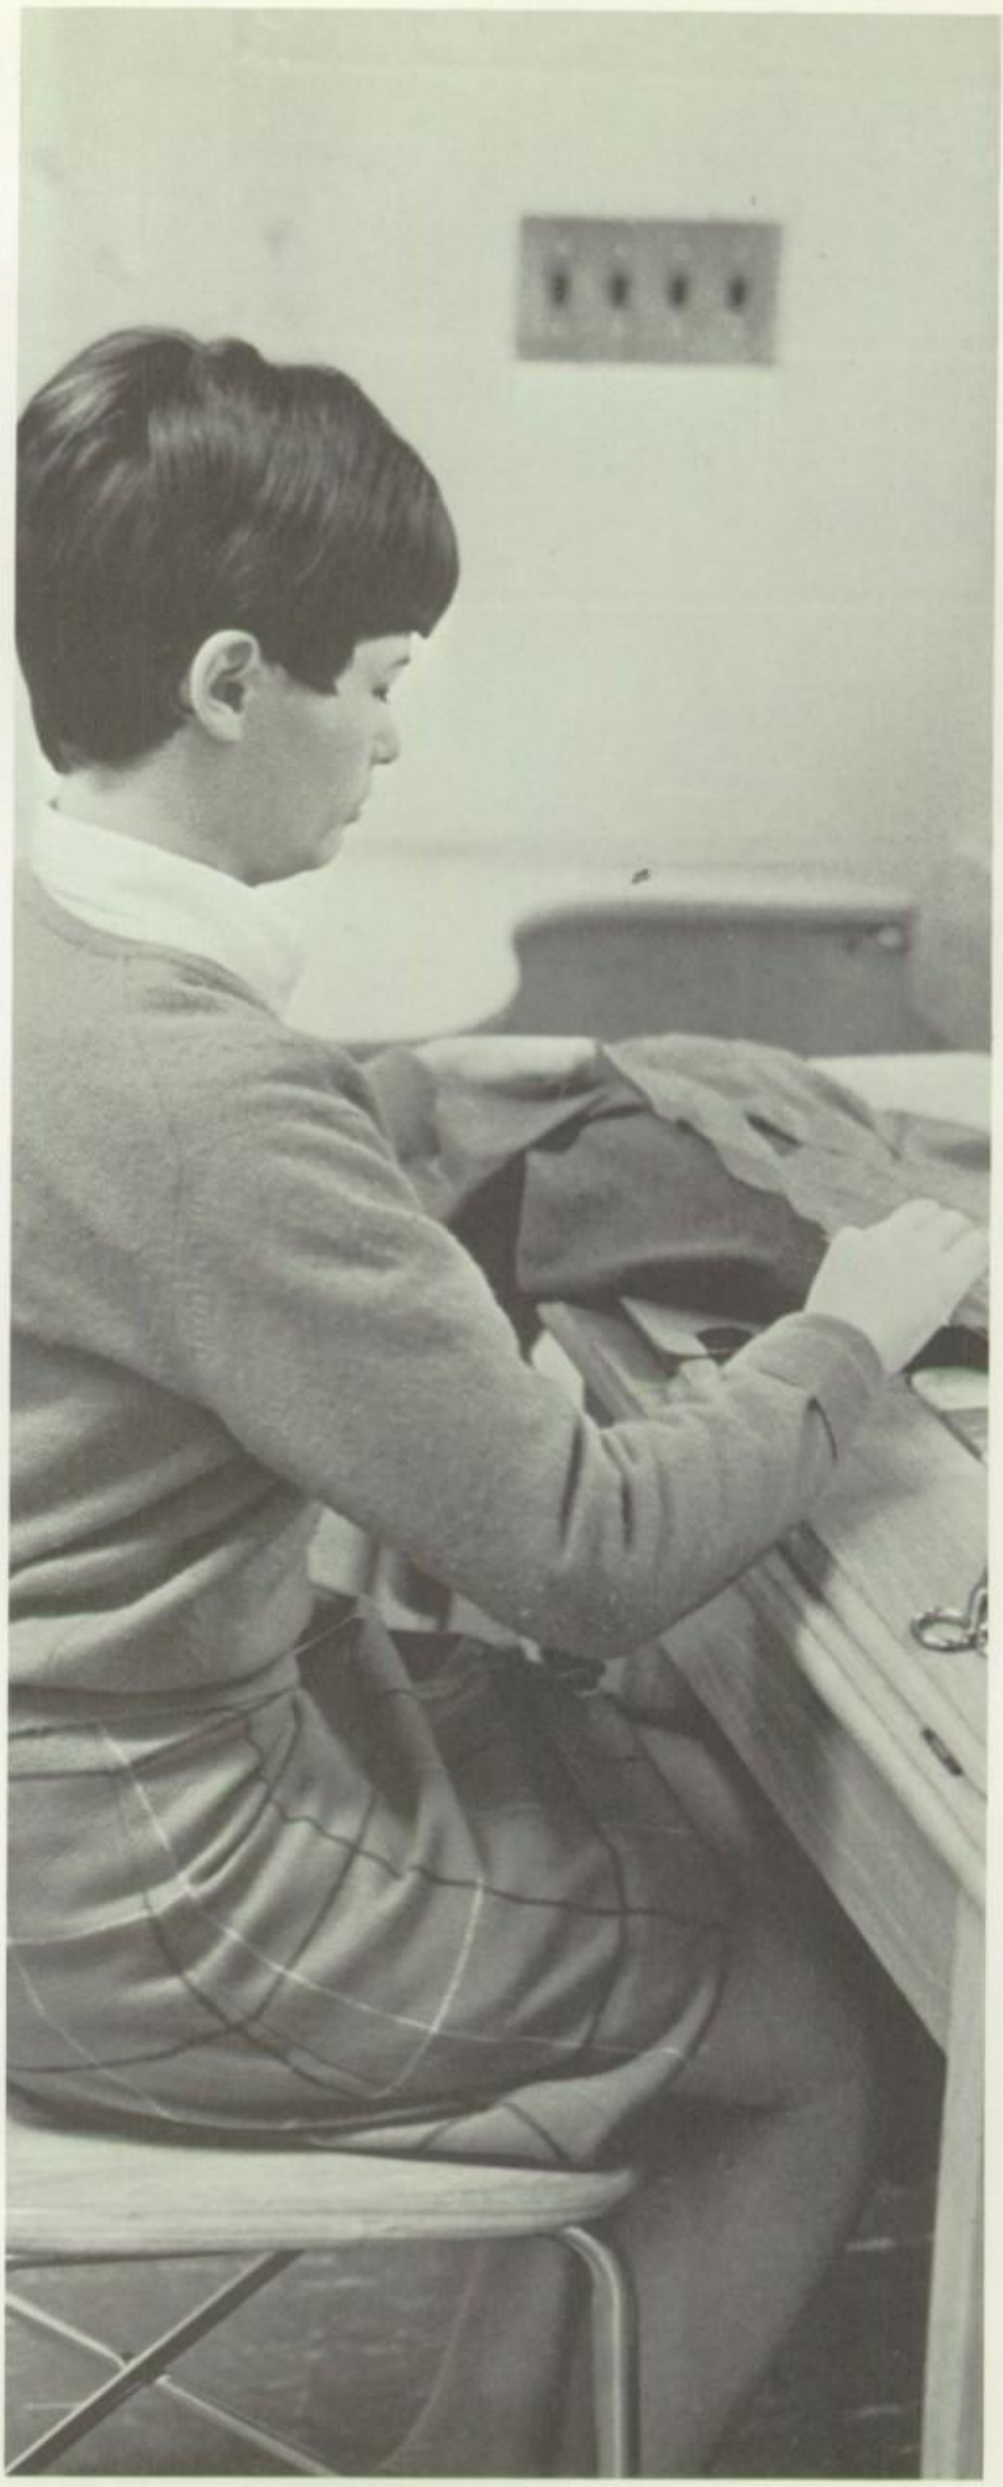
Individual projects are common in homemaking. Laura Greenman works on a dress she is making.



Boys learn basics; girls advance skills

Ambition and work went into being a successful student in Southwestern's homemaking classes. Girls were taught sewing, cooking, money management, use of time and energy, child care and development, house care, selection and care of equipment, home furnishing, housing and home decorating. As a special project drapes were made for use in the homemaking room next year.

Boys were offered a one semester course to prepare them to be self-sufficient. This varied from other home economics classes not only in gender but in material covered. They learned to prepare easy, economical, and nutritional meals. The boys were taught how to do simple tasks correctly such as washing dishes and boiling water. There were twelve classes offered to 200-250 girls and fifteen boys. The department staff included Miss Roberta Bautel, Mrs. Helen Carpenter and Miss Esther Langlois, new this year.

After the drudgery of cooking, the students have to eat what they have prepared. Mrs. Helen Carpenter helps by serving.

Business courses prepare students for future

Students interested in business courses find a wide variety of classes available at Southwestern. Some of these classes are both practical and helpful to any high school student, while others are aimed especially toward those students who wish to continue in the business field.

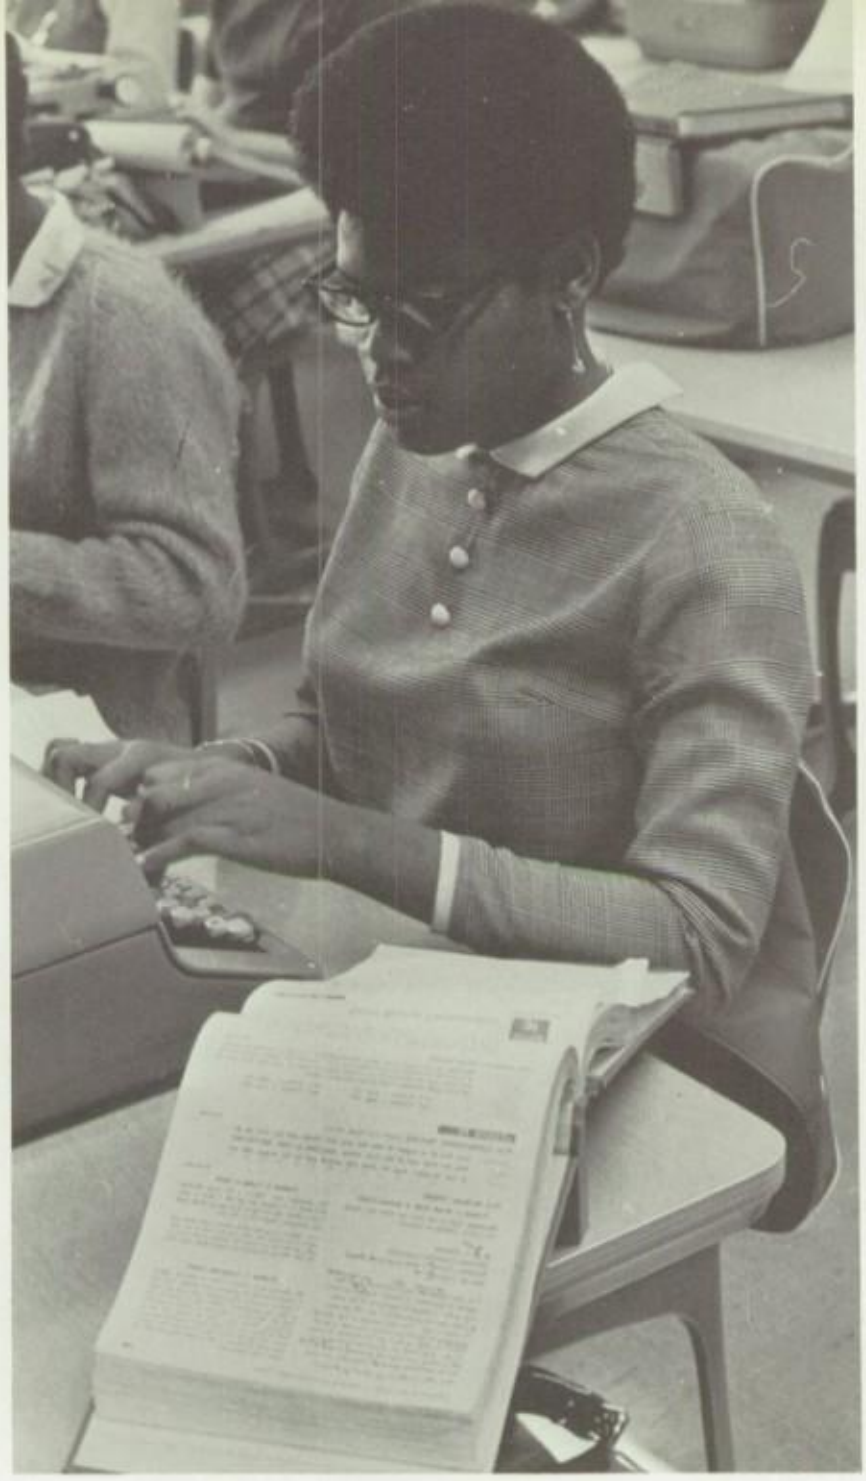
The Business Education Department offered first and second years of typing, retail sales, accounting, and stenography. One-year courses in office practice and in business math were also available, while business law and personal typing were given for one semester.

A special program was offered to seniors who wanted experience in the business world. This was the Cooperative Training Program. It included office co-op with Mrs. Elaine Little, department chairman, as coordinator, and sales co-op with Mr. James Ouradnik as coordinator.

The correct operation of adding machines is taught in accounting.

Even Shelia McKinney can make mistakes.

Soon Chris Honeycutt will be typing along smoothly.



Many students learn typing for future careers in the business world.

Future secretaries learn to take dictation in stenography classes.

Co-op offers practical experience and training

Swain reorients Arts and Crafts Department

Mr. Mitchell Swain joined the Art Department this year as an arts and crafts teacher. The main trend of interest in Mr. Swain's classes covered design projects and creative materials. Art I, Art II, and Advanced Art were taught by Mr. Arthur Koskinen. Art I was beginning art in which the teaching was directed very closely. Art II students completed five main projects; a painting, a water-color, a sculpture, a print, and a book report on an idea movement or artist. Advanced Art students were free to work on any project of their choice.

The Music Department also received a new teacher this year, Mr. Clarence Bergman, vocal teacher. He created a new vocal division, the Madrigal Singers. Many vocal classes were offered including Choir, Girls Chorus, Girls Glee, and Mixed Chorus. Instrumental classes offered were Concert Band, Music Theory and Literature, Orchestra, and Training Band. A harp was added to the department's instrumental collection this year. Southwestern's Orchestra was honored to play at the Annual Midwestern Conference at the University of Michigan.

SW Machine Shop not available to students

Machine Shop was not offered by Southwestern's Industrial Arts Department this year because there was no teacher available to teach the course. However, classes in architectural drawing, mechanical drawing, wood shop, auto shop, and print shop were still in the curriculum.

Special projects by some Southwestern Industrial arts students were entered in the Craftsmen's Fair, sponsored by "The Detroit News". This fair was held in March and April. Participants were eligible for scholarships up to $1,000.

Auto shop students again participated in the Plymouth Trouble-Shooting Contest. In this competition each team of two students was required to find and correct up to 29 malfunctions in the automobile assigned to them.

A new teacher in the department this year was Mr. Thomas Hookey, who taught auto shop.

Personal Security Education was the new course given with Driver Education this year. Each tenth grader took the class either nine weeks prior or nine weeks after Driver Education. This may be scheduled for first or second semester. There were six units covered: Personal Development, Smoking, Venereal Disease, Narcotics, Alcohol, and First-Aid. No specific time was allocated to each unit. The Personal Development unit was an introduction to the course, unifying it. Its purpose was to contribute to the physical, mental, emotional, moral, and social health of youth. The teachers were Miss Dorothy Breda and Mr. Thomas Potter.

Driver Education met for nine weeks instead of six this year because the experience of driving on the road was added to the course. The emphasis was on the physical laws of nature. Instructors were Mr. Robert Chambers, Mr. Richard Evans, Mr. Keith Richardson, Mr. Arthur Squire.

Signs for remembering are found on the Driver Education range.

Brown takes teaching position held by Calef

Miss Alice Brown replaced Mrs. Jean Calef as a girl's physical education teacher this year when Mrs. Calef was advanced to the position of counselor. Mr. Gordon Spencer, formerly a member of the Science Department, took over the teaching position vacated by Mr. Frank Mazza, ex-department chairman. The new Physical Education chairman was Mr. Tom Jobson.

The physical education program remained basically the same. A sequential type of program was followed where a different unit was covered every five weeks. Although the units were unchanging, teachers could make variations within the individual units. A significant change was the expansion of the girl's body mechanics unit. Pictures of the students were taken and later used for analyzing their posture.

One of the Student Council's biggest projects of the year was Southwestern's first bonfire, which took place the night before the Central game. Student Council members also helped organize other school activities such as dances and sales, and sold student activity cards.

Three officers and six representatives from each class make up the student council. From these members the officers that govern the meetings are elected. This year the officers were David Riker, president; Eric Rodes, vice-president; Linda Verdun, recording secretary; and Lindsey Curtis, corresponding secretary. Mr. James Whittaker was the sponsor.

National Honor Society obtains new sponsor

A major revision in this year's National Honor Society was a change of sponsor. Mr. Richard Plourde, because of teaching responsibilities, handed the NHS sponsorship over to Mr. Vincent Abrams. Under Mr. Abrams the National Honor Society continued to meet once a month headed by these elected officers: Richard Sanders, president; Becky Gigg, vice-president; Carol Newton, recording secretary; Ruthann Saurwein, corresponding secretary; and David Riker, treasurer.

Among the tasks undertaken by the society during the year was the re-organization of their tutoring service. In addition, they had several guest speakers and sponsored a trip to see "The Miser," a play presented at Wayne State University. Throughout the majority of the year, the society consisted only of seniors. Juniors that met qualifications were inducted at a special ceremony in the spring. All members were required to maintain a 3.0 average.

The Quill and Scroll International Honor Society for High School Journalists from Southwestern consists of members from both the Hoofbeat and Spectrum staffs. Mrs. Marcia Strong, publications adviser, is the local chairman of the society, whose origin is the University of Iowa's Journalism Department.

To become a member of the society, a student must be a junior or senior taking publications and stand in the upper third of their class in scholastic ratings. New members received their membership pins and certificates at a banquet at the end of the year. They also received a year's subscription to the Quill and Scroll magazine.

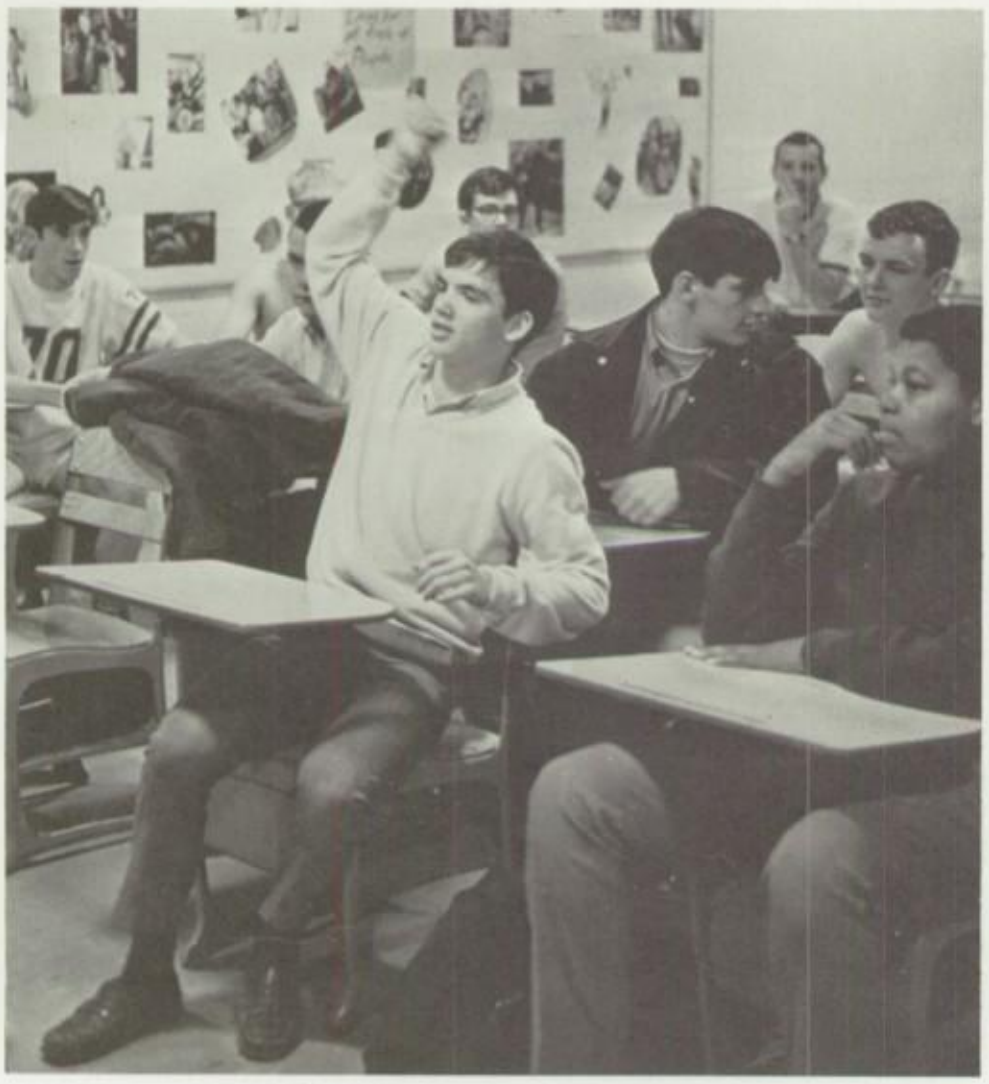
Varsity Club obtains new co-sponsor in 1969



Southwestern's Varsity Club was organized again this year. Meetings were held at the convenience of the members and co-sponsors Mr. William Conway and Mr. Gordon Spencer. The club was open to all male varsity letter winners.

Officers for the 1968-1969 season were Rick Rodes, president; Jamie Showkier, vice-president; Bart Dean, secretary-treasurer; and Roy Hayes, who was sergeant-at-arms.

One activity sponsored by the Varsity Club this year was the annual basketball game between the Varsity Club and the male faculty members.

Debaters take second in the Saginaw Valley

Under the devoted coaching of Mr. Jesse Champion, this year's debate team ended the season with an impressive second place in the Saginaw Valley. Top debaters included Jim Cech, Chris Olson, Dale Clark, Ann Vorce, Laura Stultz, Greg Fosler, and Marty Thompson.

Members of the team practiced both during and after school. Besides the Saginaw Valley Conference the team placed in District, Regional, State, and four invitational tournaments. The debaters sponsored a bake sale and "Peace" and "Colt" button sales.

Forensics students improve their speech abilities by giving orations

Southwestern's Forensics students had many goals to accomplish. One of these, the betterment of speech patterns, was achieved by extemporaneous speaking on a given subject. Another Forensics goal was to improve the students' ability to memorize. Combining these two objectives, each student presented an original oration. These orations were created by each student thinking and writing on a selected subject and then memorizing it for delivery. Besides oral work, Forensics students were taught to read serious and humorous selections interpretively. The class, taught by Mr. Jesse Champion, was run on a competitive basis similar to Debate. Pontiac Central hosted a Saginaw Valley Conference tourney.

Hoofbeat staff adds first news briefs column

Southwestern's newspaper, the Hoofbeat, was given another "A rating" by the National Newspaper Service. The paper's strong points were editorials and features. Along with a wish for good luck, the NNS said the Hoofbeat was a very lively, readable paper .

This year's staff started a news briefs column and coming events calendar. They also continued the popular book review column.

Staff members were Diana Hohn, editor-in-chief; Beckie Hanes, assistant editor; Wanda Herndon and Cherie Baril, feature editors; Lorraine Linton, editorial editor; Neal Wilensky, sports editor; Debbie Martin, business manager; Sherry Gillespie, assistant business manager; Linda Woodall, circulation manager; Debbie Plewes assistant circulation manager; and reporters Mike See, Dale Palovich and JoAnn Lemere. Mr. Bruce Wierman was the printing advisor and Mrs. Marcia Strong was the publications adviser. Mrs. Strong left after the first semester on a maternity leave. She was replaced by Mr. Phil Sheldon.

Spectrum staff earns third consecutive honor

For the third consecutive year the Spectrum was awarded an "A" rating by the National School Yearbook Association. "Generally, your stories of curriculum are specific, pictures sharp", and "printing stands out", said N. S. Patterson, NSYA Reviewing Judge and Director, in his critique of the 1968 Spectrum.

Several changes were made in the 1969 edition of the Spectrum. For the first time, students were able to have their names embossed on the cover. Eight pages were added to help cover the year's activities more completely. Also, many of the sections were updated.

Staff members included co-editors Jolene Aumaugher and Debbie Lawson; academics editor, Barb Spencer; activities editor, Karolyn Yuille; senior editor, Mary Myers; sports editor, Ruthann Saurwein; underclassmen editors, Laurie Murray and Randy Myers; and directory editors, Janet Thacker and Marcella Voiers. Assistants were Sue Mintline, Tammy Ardesson, Faye Lieffers, Kathy Clark, and Nancy Guerin. Mrs. Marcia Strong was the Spectrum's adviser. She was replaced second semester by Mr. Phil Sheldon.

Club members make trip to local art center

The objective of this year's Art Club was to bring about freedom in the member's art work, for which they were completely on their own. Ceramics, colored chalk, charcoal, metal and wood work were some of the areas covered. A trip to DeWater's Art Center proved to be interesting. Officers were Keith Holt, president; Bobby Freeman, vice-president; Renee McIntosh, secretary. Mr. Mitchell Swain sponsored the club.

Pep Club members raise spirit to new peak

This year it has been the job of the Pep Club to keep Southwestern's pride in full swing. To operate efficiently, the club was divided into five committees; publicity, activities, special days, card section, and sales. Their activities included paintings signs, selling ribbons and buttons, sending buses to out of town games, and sponsoring special days. They performed skits during pep assemblies and sponsored the card section at Atwood Stadium.

Pep Club purchased new cards for the card section this year. The cards were covered with a vinyl plastic which allowed them to be used in bad weather. The card section was enlarged to include 360 students and new designs were made.

Officers for 1969 were Debbie Lawson, president; Mike Kelly, vice-president; Elaine Kosik, secretary; and Becky Gigg, treasurer. Committee chairmen were Karolyn Yuille, card section; Leslie McMillan, sales; Tom Dietzel, publicity; Sheryl Dunlap, special days; and Cathy Williams, activities. Pep Club sponsors were Mrs. Sue Conway and Mr. James Peterson.

Spirit kept alive by active cheerleaders

"Spirit! Spirit! Let's hear it!" With the help of the cheerleaders, Southwestern spirit reached a new peak this year. Their enthusiasm and pep at pep assemblies and games helped unite the school in a common goal-pride.

This year's varsity squad was led by co-captains Karen Rittman and Judy Magee. The other members were Sherry Gillespie, Freida Urquhart, Denise Brown, and Pam Barley. They held practice during the summer and for five days attended a cheerleading camp at the University of Vincennes, Indiana. While they were there, they participated in competition and earned a first place award. During the school year they practiced twice weekly. Their coach and sponsor this year was Mrs. Susan Conway.

Junior varsity cheerleaders cheered for the Colts at all JV home football and basketball games. This year's squad consisted of co-captains Debbie Daily and Wanda Herndon along with LaDonna Wilson and Carolyn Wade.

SW Deep Harmony Boys create mini pep assembly

Southwestern's Deep Harmony Boys are not just an ordinary singing group. They are a special breed whose objective is to promote spirit. One of their projects this year was the mini pep assembly to boost spirit for games where a regular pep assembly was impossible. Mini pep assemblies were 5 minute programs over the PA system which included songs, music, cheers and pep talks. Students cheered from their fifth hour classrooms. For regular assemblies the Deep Harmony Boys dreamed up new songs and skits to entertain the students.

This year's Deep Harmony Boys were Dale Clark, Phil Green, Robin McFarlane, David Riker and Mike Smith. Mr. David Hall sponsored this group.

Various sports provided at Teen Club

Where do students go when they want to have a good time? To Teen Club of course. Teen Club is the time for students to relax and have a good time. There they may indulge in all their favorite pastimes, including pool, ping pong, basketball, swimming, or just plain talking.

Teen Club sponsored several special activities during the year, such as the Miami Murder and Boy's Leg Contest. Membership in this year's Teen Club rose to over 250. Mr. Dan Cady, Community School Director, sponsored the group, which met every Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m.

SWOSU helps extend student understanding

SWOSU, Southwestern Organization for Student Understanding, was started last spring because of a lack of understanding among races.

This year SWOSU started Inter City School discussion and listened to guest speakers to become aware of conditions in our country. Other discussions were held to break open policies of administration which are blocking progress.

This year's guest speakers were Louis Lomax, S. Tucker, and J. H. Griffin. Members also saw a film on prejudice.

The group had no officers but was headed by two representatives of race, Ed Potter and Linda Verdun. Mr. Sheldon Safer sponsored SWOSU.

Panel moderator Mel Brannon speaks to SWOSU members.

Language students hear guest speaker

Each meeting of this year's International Language Club was planned by a different language. Members taking Spanish, Latin, German, or French took turns presenting skits, films, and other programs. Mr. Joseph Sims, a former French teacher at Southwestern, was a guest speaker. Mr. Sims discussed his intensive study of French literature last summer.

Language Club members served the school acting as guides at after school functions such as the PTA. Latin students were given an opportunity to take the National Latin Exam. Bulletin boards in the Language Lab were decorated by Club members. Also, they sponsored Colt Cookie and Tootsie Roll Pop sales.

Ruthann Saurwein, president; Don Romines, vice-president; Elaine Kosik, secretary; and Mike Kelly, treasurer guided the club's activities. They were advised by Mrs. Helene Foster.

Dark Room Club buys microscopic camera

Expanding their equipment and facilities, this year's Dark Room Club acquired a microscopic camera. Club members made plans to produce a book of pictures in addition to taking photographs for both the Hoofbeat and Spectrum. The boys attended classes at Durant-Turri-Mott to learn photographic techniques. Mr. John Lynch and Mr. David Hall helped them with individual problems. Photographers this year were Bob McElyea, Phil Heidepriem, Julius Stern, and Jon Hartwig. Mr. Lynch was the club's sponsor.

Conducting a club meeting are officers Tammy Ardesson, Judy Thayer, and Jeannan Bradford.

Health Careers Club continues hospital work

Volunteer work in hospitals remained the main project of the Health Careers Club this year. With city hospitals needing help in all areas, club members were able to explore their particular area of interest. In addition to their hospital duties, this year's club sponsored bake sales and planned a trip to the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Officers of the Health Careers Club for 1969 were Judy Thayer, president; Tammy Ardesson, vice-president; Mike Miltich, secretary; and Jeannan Bradford, treasurer. Club members worked under the guidance of advisers Mrs. Marion Anderson, school nurse, and Mrs. Jean Calef.

Discussing club plans are Mrs. Marion Anderson and Mrs. Jean Calef.

Students learn skills in new Conductors Club

In order to make music students aware of the role of the conductor, Mr. Barry Wentz and Mr. Clarence Bergman organized the Conductors Club this year. Students with a music background and who were interested in learning the art of conducting were eligible for membership. Bi-monthly meetings were spent using basic conducting techniques, learning the physical movements of basic time signatures, analyzing score reading, discussing rehearsal, and observing conducting styles. Members strived to improve communication between conductor and performer.

Students learn by imitating Mr. Barry Wentz.

Harris, Morris sponsor SW literary magazine

Mrs. Patricia Harris and Mr. Patrick Morris took over the responsibilities of Colt Prints advisers this year. Lindsey Curtis, editor, helped acquaint Mrs. Harris and Mr. Morris with the problems in producing the magazine. Colt Prints was printed by Steve Hopper in the Southwestern Print Shop. He was advised by Mr. Bruce Wierman. The cover and art contests were conducted by Mr. Arthur Koskinen, art adviser.

After a heated discussion with the referee, Mr. Dan Cady is evicted from the game.

Refereed by Charlie Frazier and Mr. Scott McCollom, the annual Varsity Club-Faculty basketball game ended with the teachers soundly defeating the members of the Varsity Club, 63-51. During the second half, Mr. Dan Cady made the mistake of disputing one of Mr. McCollom's calls and was thrown out of the game. When he refused to leave, Flint Police handcuffed and led him out of the gym. New this year were the faculty cheerleaders: Mrs. Sue Conway, Miss Alice Brown, Mrs. JoAnn Lovegrove, and Mrs. Terry Crooks. As usual, the Varsity Club's cheerleaders, Brian Burkey, Gary Schnepp, Nick Bach, Rick Leach, and Ralph Bankston, entertained the crowd with original cheers. At half-time, Pam and Polly Stockton, National Junior Badminton champions, challenged Mr. Keith Richardson and Mr. Robert Diment to a game of badminton. Although no one kept score, Mr. Richardson and Mr. Diment made at least two points. The game was followed by a dance sponsored by the sophomore class.

1969 Montage highlighted by hippie scene

Interpretation of man's dreams was the job of Cathy Kennedy.

Southwestern's unique student creation, the Montage, was presented March 20th and 21st in Southwestern's auditorium. A special performance for the Michigan Art Teachers Education Association was given March 22. Using a combination of the fine arts, the 1969 Montage portrayed the theme of "Dreams."

The Montage was especially entertaining this year. Southwestern's madrigals and an instrumental ensemble performed in the Montage. Two films, made by Mark Charette and Paul Brayan added a professional touch to the show. A modern mystical effect was created by the dancers' unusual costumes purchased from New York.

The production was written, directed, and presented by members of the student body. Writers of the 1969 Montage were Nancy Guerin, Cathy Kennedy, and Chris Olson. Paul Brayan managed the stage crew, and designed the sets. Chris Olson also served as student director with Mr. Arthur Koskinen as faculty sponsor.

In a dream segment, Phyllis Slocum portrays Greg Fosler's nightmare.

Footlights Club applies make-up for Montage

Applying make-up to the cast of the '69 Montage was the job of the Footlights Club this year. Members perfected the art of make-up both in their drama classes and at monthly meetings. Techniques were practiced on each other under the supervision of Mrs. Nelda Topolka, sponsor, and then used on members of the Montage cast.

Stage Crew creates unique technical effects

Unconventional effects, costumes, and scenery were created by the Stage Crew for the 1969 Montage. They filmed two movies which were shown in the course of the program. One was a time capsule of a man's life; the other was a free form movie consisting solely of colors. "Plural gowns", one costume covering two or more actors, were used in one scene The dancers wore one piece tubes of stretch material over their regular costume, creating an unusual effect. Sets were designed by Keith Holt, Greg Everhart and Paul Brayan, who was also stage manager.

SW skiers take to the slopes again this year

Southwestern's Ski Club was large this year because more and more students learned the enjoyable sport. The Ski Club made it even more fun because members were able to ski with their friends and take advantage of special functions. Season passes were available to students for use on the slopes. A $1.00 ticket allowed students to ski at special rates. For $2.00, they received the special rates plus two free lessons. The club held meetings on Tuesday nights and skied at Mt. Holly on Thursdays. Presiding over the club's activities were: Mike Murphy, president; Cathy Wade, vice-president; and Colleen Conaton, secretary-treasurer. Mr. Raymond Roth was their sponsor along with Mr. Arthur Koskinen.

"Riding the lift is as much fun as skiing," says Chris Marty.

Girls' Golf Club gets professional instruction

Instruction in the fundamentals of golf, through the Mott Program, was added tc the club's activities this year. The girls played golf at both Pierce and Mott Parks and practiced at the driving range. Organizing the golf club's activities were Judy Schneider and JoAnn Kennedy, co-chairmen; and Tammy Ardesson, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. JoAnn Lovegrove sponsored the club.

Taking time out from a busy schedule, Mr. Garret Ebmeyer, principal, exhibits his putting to Barb Spencer, Nancy Guerin, and Tammy Ardesson.

Tennis Club emphasizes important techniques

Boys as well as girls were included in this year's Tennis Club. Emphasis was placed on the importance of perfecting the fundamentals of the sport. Members of the club met in Southwestern's gym on Saturday mornings where their sponsor, Mr. Garth Frost, taught the basic techniques. Games were moved to outdoor courts in the spring.

In Cathy Kennedy's game, concentration plays a major role.

Preparing to pass the ball to a teammate is Rod Fry, a member of an Intramural team.

Intramural sports present both basketball and golf

Southwestern offered intramural competition in basketball and golf in order to give all boys the opportunity to play in a sport. Unlike Varsity and JV teams, enrollment at Southwestern was the only requirement for membership in Intramurals. Both sports competed weekly, basketball teams in the school gym and golf teams at Swartz Creek Golf Course. Although only two sports were offered this year, others were in the planning stage. Intramurals were sponsored by Mr. Dan Cady through the Mott Program.

Sponsor Mr. Dan Cady watches a game of basketball.

SW teams keep managers and trainers busy

The sports for this year have ended and the awards have been given. But often overlooked were the managers and trainers who worked with the teams and coaches.

Most teams had boys who worked along side the athletes during the year. They set up things, kept score during practice, ran errands, and did many other odd jobs.

SW Colts take city with first undisputed title

"The Year of the Colt," the motto of the 1968 varsity gridders could not have been more fitting for this year's football season. The Colts captured their first undisputed city title, their first victory over Central in the school's history and returned the Victory Vane to Southwestern by beating Northwestern.

Although the Colts were hindered by injuries, they maintained a season record of 5-2-2. One loss was to the first team in the state, Midland. The gridders played to a tie with the ninth team in the state, Saginaw High.

Rod Pendergraff, Rod Fry, Al Easterwood, and Mark Charette made the All-Valley team. Mark Charette was unanimous choice for most valuable player in the Valley. Charette also received honorable mention for the All-State team. The Optimist Club award went to Rod Fry and Bob Harvey. Milt Gordon received the Rugged Jug, the award given to the outstanding player in the Central game. Most improved player was Royce Winzer. The most valuable players, unanimously selected by the team members, were Bob McComb and Mark Charette. Rod Fry and Mark Charette served as co-captains for 1968 season. Tony Roberts and Robin Troyer were elected co-captains for 1969.

State qualifier, Ron Johns, demonstrates his powerful skill in the breaststroke.

Southwestern's tankers finished the season with an 8-4 record. A seven meet winning streak was a high point of the season. The swimmers placed second in the city meet, losing to Central.

Varsity records fell continuously throughout the season. Ron Johns broke records in three events. He went 1:04.4 in the 100 yard breaststroke, 23.9 in the 50 yard freestyle, and 2:10.2 in the 200 yard individual medley. David Gaspar broke the varsity and pool records in diving with an accumulation of 214.4 points. Gaspar and Johns qualified for the State Meet held at Michigan State. Gaspar placed 14th in diving, while Johns took 5th in the 100 yard breaststroke and 10th in the 200 yard individual medley. Bart Dean, Rick Rodes, Mike See, and Ron Johns set a varsity and pool record in the 400 freestyle relay with a time of 3:39.1.

Mr. John Wheelhouse, an Albion graduate, joined the tanker coaching staff as assistant to Mr. Alex Crane. Co-captains of the 1968-69 swimming team were David Gaspar and Rick Rodes. Ron Johns was selected most valuable swimmer. Most improved swimmer was Dave Erdly. Scott MacArthur was the most outstanding sophomore.

Baker also was champion of five other tournaments.

Four wrestlers: Mark Kramer, Maurice Canada, Mert Baker, and Mark Whittaker, went undefeated in duel competition. John Anderson maintained a record of 8-2. Rod Pendergraff, city champ, at 175 lbs., and Mark Whittaker, city champ at 120 lbs., served as co-captains. The most improved player was Mark Kramer; the most valuable player was Mert Baker; the most humorous player for the second year was Andy Swoope, city champ at 103 lbs. SW golfers city champions for seventh year

Although unable to recapture the state title, the 1968 Varsity golfers collected twelve dual victories and one loss. Their only loss was to Midland by one stroke. The linksmen won the city championship tournament, and finished the season with the valley co-championship, third place in the region and tenth place in the state.

Bob Lawrence returned for the second year as captain of the team. Lawrence, a triple letter winner upheld his image of perfection throughout the season. Rick Harris, Craig Mengel, and Jack Seltzer were the returning lettermen for 1968. Letter winners during the season were Bob Harvey, Lance Lovegrove, and Bruce Osher. Jack Seltzer was chosen team captain for 1969.

Colt JV's take city title; season record 15-1

The 1968 junior varsity golfers highlighted a successful season by capturing first place in the quadrangular City Championship tournament. The JV linksmen held Northern to a 40 stroke advantage for an easy title-winning victory.

At the completion of the season the JV golfers stood 15-1, losing only to Holy Redeemer's varsity team. The skill of the junior varsity team was demonstrated with double victories over St. Matthew's and Fenton's varsity clubs. The rest of their conquests were over other JV teams.

Bob Harvey and Lance Lovegrove played on the JV team for part of the season, but were later moved up to varsity competition. Ray Arnott, Mike Leavitt, Mark McCabe and Reed McMillan continually kept low averages throughout the season. Mike Kutzy, captain, was the most valuable golfer. Gary Miller was the most improved player.

Three school records broken by Colt thinclads

Southwestern's varsity thinclads started off the 1968 season with a surprising 62-56 wallop of Flint Central. This was the first time in five years that the Colts defeated the Indian trackmen. Despite this excellent beginning, the team ranked fourth in the city and sixth in the valley at the close of the season.

Roy Dukes highlighted the season with triple record times in the 440 run. The city, valley, and school records fell to Dukes' amazing dexterity. Teamed with Dukes; Ed Watkins, Greg Robinson and Brad Neely captured the Colt mile relay record with a time of 3:26.4. Ed Watkins tied the varsity record with a time of ten seconds in the 100 yard dash.

Ed Watkins was selected as the most valuable member of the team. Brad Neely received the Chapman award for the hardest worker.

SW varsity netters

Building for the coming seasons was the main objective of the young, inexperienced 1968 varsity tennis team. The netters ended the season with a record of 3 wins and 7 losses; yet all but four of the players were scheduled to return for the 1969 season, so the outlook was good.

The team's only award, the undergraduate trophy, went to Chris Olson. No captains were selected. Tournaments were held in the fall of 1968 to determine the fall champion.

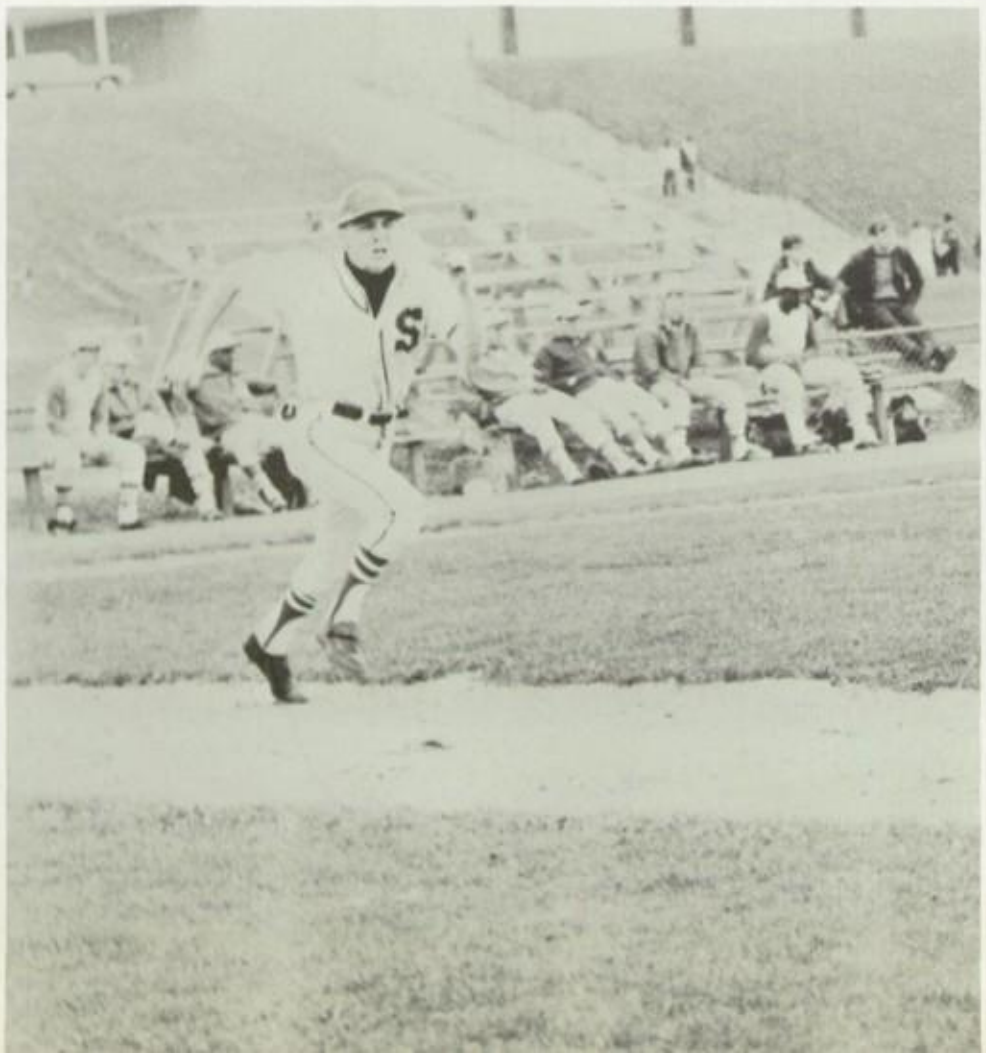
SW Varsity nine ties for fifth place in Valley

Racing towards first on a hit is Bob McComb.



Although their season was not impressive, the Colt nine tied for fifth place in the Valley with a record of 11 wins and 13 losses.

Among the awards given to exceptional players were batting champion, Dave Trombley; top pitcher, Keith Keirns; most improved player, Scott Hager; and most valuable player Keith Keirns. Team captains for the 1968 season were Dave Trombley and Mike Johnson.

The outlook for the next season was better with ten players returning. Elected captains for the 1969 season were Rusty Rodes and Bob McComb.

One of the major reasons for their successful season were the Colt hitters.

JV Colts continue as city champions

For the second consecutive year the junior varsity baseball team captured the city championship. Double victories over Northwestern and Central clinched the title for the Colts. The JV nine completed the season with a record of 16 wins and 9 losses.

Six boys earned the title of outstanding players. Throughout the season the most improved players were Jeff Davis and Brian Howard. Along with being two of the team's most outstanding players, Robin Troyer and Jeff Davis served as co-captains of the 1968 JV baseball team.

Sophomores

The Student Council opens their meeting by listening to the minutes of last week.

This year's sophomore class created a new fund raising idea, a coat check, which they sponsored at various school functions. Several bake sales along with jawbreaker and button sales also increased the Class of '71's treasury.

Sophomore representatives for 1968-1969 were Coleen Conaton, Jane Dever, Mary Johnson, Kathy Murphy, Patt Parker, and Pam Stockton. Serving as officers were Steve Mariotti, president; Scott MacArthur, vice-president-treasurer; and Gail Fisk, secretary. They were sponsored by Mr. Tom Jobson and Mrs. Susan Meissner.

Juniors

"Voyage Through Spring" theme for dance

Since their sophomore year the Class of '70 has strived to reach several goals. One of these was the financing of this year's Junior Couples Dance "Voyage through Spring." To help pay for this dance they sponsored many sales this year. Among them were apple cider, T-shirt, and candy cane sales. Class sponsors, Mr. John Lynch and Mrs. Betty Vandenbosch worked closely with the juniors in their many activities.

Donald Romines led the Class of '70 for a second year. Vice-president-treasurer, Craig Galloway, and secretary, Lorraine Linton were the other junior officers. Representatives were Connie Donoho, Nancy Guerin, Mary David, James Mitchell, Elaine Parker, and Phyllis Slocum.

Juniors find their sucker sale very profitable.

Seniors

Class of '69 leads the way with Colt Power

Originality highlighted the activities of this year's senior class. One of the many new things introduced was music in the cafeteria during lunch hours. Unusual foods such as cotton candy, popcorn, and celery were sold. They also sponsored a senior tennis shoe day. In retaliation for the paint sprayed on the school before the Central-Southwestern football game, several daring seniors raided Central and confiscated their Indian plaque. Even the theme of the Senior Prom, "There will come soft rains," was one of the most original ever.

Hours of work went into building the senior class treasury. Officers Greg Fosler, president; Linda Baker, vice president-treasurer; and Deb Taylor, secretary, spent a great deal of time and energy on the student government. Lindsey Curtis, Nancy Davis, John Parker, Dave Riker, Rick Rodes, and Linda Verdun were a busy group of senior representatives.

Senior council member, Nancy Davis sells Colt stationery to Dave Riker.

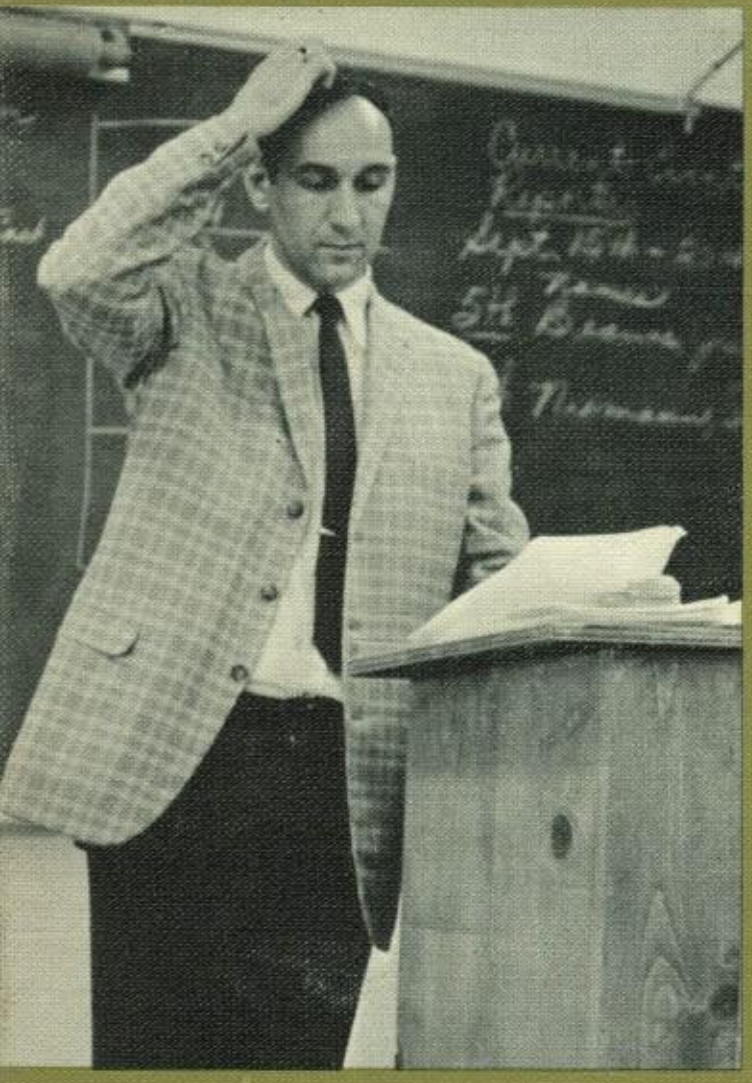
Charlee,

It been a fantastic eight years since 4th grade. We're been through it all. Good luck at Stevens. I know you'll do well.


Love,
Rick
